OUR PROGRAMMES

GIRLS CAN CODE
AFGHANISTAN
Our Girls Can Code programme works with schools in Afghanistan to provide 16-19 year old girls with basic computer literacy, as well as coding and English language skills. In doing so, we support and inspire girls to enter a career in science and technology while challenging traditional perceptions of women’s roles.

THE WOMANITY AWARD
WORLDWIDE
The Womanity Award supports the adaptation of impactful models addressing violence against women across regions. We select partner organisations that come together to replicate and adapt a successful model from one country to another. The Womanity Award acts as a catalyst and accelerates the dissemination of learnings, best practices and impactful programmes addressing VAW.

WOMENCHANGEMAKERS
BRAZIL & INDIA
Our WomenChangeMakers programme identifies women-focused social ventures and, through institutional development, helps strengthen the organisations to increase their reach and impact.

DISRUPTIVE MEDIA
MIDDLE EAST REGION
Radio Nisaa
10 years ago we founded Radio Nisaa, the first female-led Middle East radio station putting women’s voices and issues on the public agenda.

B100 Ragl
A 3 season fiction animated series launched in 2013 in collaboration with key celebrities and influencers to shift gender stereotypes.

WeMean

WeMean recently launched Smi’touha Minni (‘You Heard It From Me’), a YouTube based satire show that debunks gender stereotypes and deconstructs common traditional narratives about gender.
